From Hoshea to Yehoshua...

‘...And Moses called Hoshea bin Nun Yehoshua (Joshua)’ (Bemidbar 13, 16)

Why is Moses’ renaming of Hoshea to Joshua recorded at this point? Why was there a need for this name change?

There is a precedent for a name change, from Avraham who was originally called Avram but whose names was changed to show that he was the father of a multitude of nations (Bereishit 17,5). Joshua, however, has previously been mentioned in the Torah as ‘Yehoshua’, and not Hosea. He is called ‘Yehoshua’ when described as Moses’ assistant in last week’s Sidra, Beha’alotecha (Bemidbar 11,28), and when choosing soldiers to fight against the evil tribe of Amalek (Shemot 17,9).

Rashi, the premier Torah commentator, explains that the phrase ‘called’ is a verb of prayer in this context and not a verb of simple calling. Moses prayed that Joshua would be saved from the evil counsel of the negative spies. To assist Joshua, Moses’ prayer invoked the extra letter ‘hei’ which changes Hoshea to Yehoshua, and put together with the letter ‘yud’ at the start of Yehoshua makes a Name of G-d, to add the blessing of that Name to Yehoshua.

But why did Calev, the other good spy, not receive the same blessing? Perhaps Calev, who when arriving in Israel went alone to Me’arat Hamachpela (the burial ground of Abraham and family in Hebron) to pray for a successful mission, could rely on this merit.

For Yehoshua, another method was appropriate. Moses, when praying during the fight against Amalek, had invoked the Name of ‘yud, hei’. This provided merit for Yehoshua, who was heavily involved in protecting the Am Yisrael during that battle, and it was thus appropriate for Yehoshua to use that merit again, so Moses prayed for him, through use of the phrase Yehoshua, to request for extra merit for his student.

Scoping the Journey Ahead – Grasshoppers and Hedgehogs

The next few parshiyot explore our attitudes and apprehensions facing change of locale. In Parashat Shelach Lecha, Bnei Yisrael are on the verge of transition from the wilderness to the Promised Land. One might have thought that the miracles which had preceded would have inspired them with hope and joy. However, ten of the twelve spies painted a picture of fearful consequence; the land was beautiful but the inhabitants too mighty. Joshua, Caleb, Moshe and the precedent of Hashem's care could not lift the spirits of a now despondent people. The majority prevail. We would rather die here than take the next step out.

In Parashat Korach, the forty-year Wilderness sentence gives dissenters the opportunity to sow further discord against the establishment and leadership. Different rabbles have diverse grievances. The discussion is on style and legitimacy of leadership, a hankering for the past. Bnei Yisrael turn inwards, look backwards and not forwards to redemption.

Balak (after Chukkat) sees wilderness life normalised. Bnei Yisrael have adapted so well to the status quo that their tents are praised by Bilaam – and yet, by the end of the Parasha, we see the laudable values are slipping. The modesty and morality erode, and people stand by.

While this is by no means a tight analogy with our journey from lockdown to liberation, it raises some points for reflection. We make the best of our “new normals”, and certainly have lessons to learn and to carry on to the future. Nonetheless, we should not become so deflected from our core mission that we lose our sense of purpose and of right.

Our daily davening, even at home, should not be lax, nor abridged. The Parasha should be read even though it is not leined. The haftara, too. Just because we are not with a congregation, it doesn't mean that we should drop the prayers for the Queen or for Israel.

Our Tefilla belongs in our shuls and minyanim. It is not a coincidence that our houses of worship are both Mikdash Me'at (a mini-Sanctuary) and Beit Knesset (a House of Assembly), though our services are not supposed to emulate some of the proceedings of the Knesset.

It is right and it is reasonable that there is apprehension and anxiety moving on. Hashem and Moshe are not setting the Parliamentary agenda. However, subject to the legal benchmarks and overarching concerns for personal and public Pikuach Nefesh as determined by the Chief Rabbi and Dayanim, we hope to return to services in Shul at the beginning of July. We hope and intend to have a wide range of services for the Yamim Norayim.

Please be assured, we will continue to reach out to all those who are advised or choose to stay and pray or learn at home.

There may well be some changes at the outset and for a while. Restrictions on proximity might change the look of who stands at the Bimah and how honours are allocated. There is even a study on “the Propagation of Respiratory Aerosols by the Vuvuzela” coming out of the 2010 FIFA World Cup in South Africa which will inform our approach to how, when and where we blow the Shofar through Ellul and on Second Day Rosh Hashana.

In moving forwards, there is a determination (within the parameters) to return to traditional services and not create new compromised norms. We will try to run the services we run as fully as we can. We have been guided against taking a “Pick'n'Mix” approach to selecting “core” tefillot and creating an impression that there are Psalms which are optional or dispensable. Indeed, on Tisha B'Av, we omit certain joyous, hopeful and Torah passages in Shacharit – but add them to our Mincha. Our daily Tefilla should be complete and not curtailed.

Please do take the opportunity to respond to the surveys and questionnaires that the shul and the United Synagogue may be sending out. The better informed we are about your intentions and apprehensions, the better we can arrange halls and venues as well as manage cleaning and security.

Thanks to everyone who supported the Ethics Panel on Sunday and the conversation with Rory Stewart on Wednesday evening. Both were most enjoyable and informative.

Rory Stewart made a memorable speech in Parliament in 2015 about hedgehogs. Hedgehogs were reputed, wrongly, to have five teeth. These five teeth were associated with the five excuses we make to avoid doing what God wants us. These, in turn, are learnt from Moses, our greatest yet most reluctant leader.

- I'm not adequate for the task.
- I don't know enough.
- People don't take me seriously
- I'm no good with words.
- I am not willing.

In this week's Parasha, the spies compare us not with hedgehogs, but with grasshoppers, “in our own eyes”. In our eyes we were grasshoppers; we saw ourselves as inferior, worthless, and unable to measure up to them. We lacked confidence.

It is always difficult to transition from familiarity, even the new and relatively short-lived experience of Covid isolation. Nonetheless, it is with some caution, with hope and optimism, we look forward to leaving the wilderness of lockdown and progressively resuming our spiritual journey as a congregation in Kinloss.

Shabbat Shalom

We are pleased to announce that we are preparing for the potential re-opening of Kinloss in July.

We have created a short survey to help us ascertain the current needs of members. Whilst we appreciate the world and people's lives are changing on a daily basis, we have included questions relating to the Daily Services, Shabbatot and Chaggim. This will give us an early indication of the potential need for different services including the need for off-site services. A further in depth survey will be released closer to the Chaggim.

There are strict Governmental and United Synagogue Guidelines which we will be following. They include social distancing, the need to wear a mask, regular cleaning throughout the building, no kiddushim to name a few.

Services are likely to take a different format and our Rabbinic Team are working on devising a policy that will be distributed in due course. Guidelines to this survey

1. This survey should be filled per member (i.e. husband and wife separately)
2. The survey is only relevant for members over the age of 21. Please note: If you have a child who is between 21 and 29, they will need to take out TCM membership to be included in future allocated seating for Chaggim and registration can be found at <https://portal.tribeuk.com/account/tcm/register/>
3. This survey is being used as a general indicator. Please go to :

www.kinloss.org.uk/survey

THANK YOU TO THE 250 PEOPLE WHO HAVE ALREADY COMPLETED THE SURVEY

JEWISH SCHOOLS ADMISSIONS CRP REGISTRATION FOR 2020

Update from the United Synagogue :

One of the elements of the Admissions process for many Jewish schools is the operation of the criteria set out in Certificate of Religious Practice (CRP). In the light of the Coronavirus (COVID 19) outbreak it is currently not possible to apply one of the criteria in the usual manner, namely attendance at synagogue, the opportunity for which would have commenced on 1 May 2020 for admissions for 2021 / 22.

Further to a review of the existing CRP criteria and taking legal advice, the Office of the Chief Rabbi and the United Synagogue has now finalised a revised CRP process for 2021/22 only. This process is being submitted to the Department for Education, but it cannot be published until the Department confirm that Jewish schools are permitted to vary their admissions arrangements outside of the normal process and timeframes for doing so. We are doing all we can to ensure this is prioritised by the Department so that we receive a rapid answer, and hope that Jewish schools will be in a position to publish their admissions arrangements in the very near future. We believe that applicants should not be concerned about being disadvantaged as a result of this delay and the changes to CRP.

In the meantime, we continue to respectfully request that you do not contact the schools' admissions officer or your local Synagogue about this matter until there is a published resolution.
