A Fitting Icon for the Jewish People – Leora and Harry Salter

The beginning of Parshat Behaalotecha explores the symbolism of the Menorah. In modern-day concept, the state of Israel has adopted the Menorah as one of the symbols and icons that helps stitch the Jewish history to our legacy, our past and our heritage. It appears on the shekel and in front of the Knesset. The symbols and icons use the great continuity to the Jewish history.

There is a Midrash highlighting different aspects of the attempted renewal. On the one hand the Midrash asks why Hashem instructs us to light the menorah in the Beit HaMikdash. Surely Hashem is the source of light and His presence should be enough to radiate that? So, what's the symbolism, the function or the message to the Jewish people about lighting the menorah?

It says in this week's Parasha (8,2):

וַיֹּאמֶר אֲלֵהֶן וְאָמַרְתָּ אֵלָיו בְּהַעֲלִיתָ אֶת־הַנֵּרוֹת אֶל־מִוֶּלֶךְ הַמִּנְוָה וְאִירֵי שִׁבְעַת הַנֵּרוֹת:

‘Speak to Aaron and say to him, “When you mount the lamps, let the seven lamps give light at the front of the lampstand.”’

Chazal were very sensitive to the word ‘Behaalotecha,’ because this passage in the Torah is repeated elsewhere but this is a very powerful phrase. It's not natural. Normally you would find something along the lines of ‘lehadlik et hanerot’ etc. It's that word that bears much of the message and the meaning of this Midrash. So, the Midrash begins with Am Yisrael telling Hashem that there is no reason for us to create light, you Hashem reside in the light. Yet you tell us to light the menorah? Hashem replies to them that of course I don't need your light, but I want you to provide light in the same way that I do. That would suggest some aspect of imitating Hashem but presumably imitating Hashem must have some function, some consequence. We don't just imitate Hashem.

One statement of the Midrash, the first thrust of the Midrash is that in order to raise the Jewish people's dignity, their presence and prestige in the international community, the gentile nation should see not just the lighting of a candelabra but a divine activity and the reciprocity between Hashem providing light and our provision of light. We are radiant in the same way that Hashem is and this is ‘Behaalotecha et Hanerot’ – we raise the flicker of these flames and by raising these flames our prestige rises amongst the national community.

The Menorah seems a very fitting icon for Israel because one of the thrusts in creating a state and advancing a state is because we feel that we are the representatives of Hashem. The rise of the Jewish people and the rise of a state is a Kiddush Hashem and represents Hashem's presence in this world. The drama of our prestige amongst the nations being associated with our relationship with Hashem typified by the menorah is very much the dynamic of the modern state of Israel and is very resonant that the menorah is adopted as part of this whole process.

Light at the End of The Tunnel

Our Parasha opens with Aaron lighting the Menorah.

There is light at the end of the tunnel.

Provisional dates have been announced for returns to religious assembly, the distances we will have to keep and the regimen we will need to follow (masks on, even for those leading the davening or speaking, no singing etc.)

Shimon has worked with an architect to map out and optimise shul seating – easily manageable for weekly services, but a Herculean task for the Yamim Norayim.

Of course, there is every possibility that every one of the goalposts could move, giving us more or less freedom between now and July 4/5. The Chief Rabbi, United Synagogue and their panel of experts will be advising us. As Lord Stephen Greenhalgh, Minister for Faith (amongst other portfolios) has confirmed, the government guidance needs to be applied by each faith with an eye to their particular forms of worship.

Consecrations are resuming from June 28th where there are pre-existing reservations, but at the moment, these will be restricted to six attendees plus one rabbi. While more are permitted to attend a levaya, and we are able to have Kaddish with close family at the grounds, there is still a limit restricting mourners only to accompany the casket to interment.

We will certainly be continuing online educational programming; our shiurim and interviews etc. When weekday services resume in shul, we hope to Zoom those out. It will be good for those still at home to see and hear the leining and a Kedusha. It should be noted, though, this does not make one a part of the minyan.

On Sunday evening at 8pm we have an outstanding panel, Baroness Ros Altmann, Rabbi Dr Akiva Tatz and Prof Lord Robert Winston looking at the ethical questions and lessons that have arisen around the Covid pandemic.

Within the constricts of time, we will be discussing priorities in treatment, postponing treatment for some conditions to facilitate concerted action against the virus, how much weighting we give the health risks to individuals and the community and how much to the health and welfare of the economy. We will be looking at the disproportionate impact of the virus on people from BAME backgrounds. How should vaccines be researched, distributed, and marketed? How far do we allow public health to restrict individual choice and freedom?

Please register on www.kinloss.org.uk/ethics.

Next Wednesday at 8pm, I shall be in conversation with Rory Stewart, former Minister of State, candidate for Tory leadership and until recently candidate for Mayor. His experiences and insight cover many terrains, from the military, international development, food and housing, the prison service and logistics. Please join us on www.kinloss.org.uk/rory.

While we are moving ourselves into a more positive public position, I am well aware that the future fills many of us with apprehension. From domestic relationships to financial insecurity, there are tens of thousands for whom the future is not rosy and the public spin quite alienating. Many have been working hard (harder than ever) over the last three months – the call for renewed energy feels harsh, while others celebrate the skills they have acquired, or hobbies mastered during their “coronation”.

Please do reach out if you need support. We are here to listen, and can often connect with the resources who can best help you and your family in full confidentiality.

I know that many people have also found great fulfillment volunteering. We continue to welcome offers of support for the community. There are many organisations which are well structured for regular voluntary commitment. I have been in touch with an interfaith project looking to match volunteers with “as and when chores” – collecting medicines and taking product to foodbanks. Please email me on rabbi@rabbiLawrence.net if that sounds like something you might consider.

JEWISH SCHOOLS ADMISSIONS UPDATE CRP REGISTRATION FOR 2020

One important element of the admissions process for many Jewish schools is the operation of the criteria set out in Certificate of Religious Practice (CRP). In the light of the Coronavirus (COVID 19) pandemic it will not be possible to apply one of the criteria, namely attendance at synagogue, the opportunity for which is due to start from 1 May 2020 for admissions for 2021/22.

In order to make the CRP process for this year as simple and workable as possible, the Office of the Chief Rabbi and the United Synagogue are reviewing the existing CRP to determine revised criteria. We are assuming that any revised criteria will be in force for admissions for 2021/22 only, in order to take account of current conditions. Once the United Synagogue have finalised the revised criteria for 2021/22, which we hope to be in the very near future, a revised CRP form will be available from the schools in due course.

We respectfully request that you do not contact the schools' admissions officer or Kinloss about this matter until there is a published resolution.
