Office of The CHIEF RABBI

'You will see, you will see, how good it will be next year'

The Chief Rabbi's Pesach Message 5781

Why, at every Seder, do we enthusiastically sing, "leshana haba'ah biyrushalayim" – next year in Jerusalem? Although we have made the same declaration every year, it has never come true – at least not in the messianic sense in which it is intended – so why not simply say "In the future, we will be in Jerusalem"?

Any study of Jewish history is a study of hope, often despite apparently impossible odds. It is therefore fitting that the epic story of the inception of the Israelites as a nation, the Exodus from Egypt, stands among the greatest illustrations of optimism and forbearance of all time.

It was a truly extraordinary miracle. The chasm in status between the Egyptian overlords and the Hebrew slaves could hardly have been greater. The most sophisticated and powerful civilisation on the planet controlled and persecuted a tiny nation of slaves, who were denied every basic human dignity and any capacity for resistance.

What hope was there for salvation? On what basis could the people summon the strength to go on despite everything? The answer is that they knew of the promise that Hashem had made to their ancestor, Abraham, that they would be strangers in a land where they would be oppressed and enslaved, but He would ultimately redeem them and they would return home to the Promised Land. Despite everything, they chose hope over despair. They chose to believe that salvation would eventually come.

This places Pesach 5781 into valuable context for us. This time last year, we were coming to terms with the fact that we could not celebrate Pesach with extended friends and family as we usually do. It was agonising for so many, particularly those who were vulnerable or lonely. We took comfort in our belief that this was a 'one-off' and next year would be different. How then should we respond in the face of yet another Pesach when so many are separated from their loved ones, having not yet banished Coronavirus from our midst?

Let us approach this Pesach with the same degree of hope and optimism as ever. Real progress is being made and we are blessed by the extraordinary miracle that is the vaccine. Britain and Israel have led the world in administering its roll out and, Be'ezrat Hashem, we will soon return to a more regular rhythm of life.

I am inspired by the beautiful words of Ehud Manor, the Israeli songwriter, who wrote his famous song 'Bashana Haba'a', at a time when the State of Israel seemed to be surviving from one war to the next:

'Od tireh, od tireh, kama tov yihye, bashana, bashana haba'a' – 'You will see, you will see, how good it will be next year!'

Valerie and I extend to you all our warmest and best wishes for a healthy, fulfilling and kosher Pesach.

Message from the President of the United Synagogue

At my Seder table I like to read this stirring passage from Rabbi Sacks' Haggadah (pp 2–3). His recent passing makes it even more poignant:

“On the 28th November 1947, member countries voted on the United Nations Partition Plan for Palestine. The plan proposed creating two states, a Jewish and Arab state side by side. If the plan gained two-thirds of the votes, it would herald the creation of the first Jewish State since biblical times and with it, the realisation of the Zionist dream. But this was by no means a sure verdict. It took much lobbying and convincing on the part of the Zionist movement to persuade other nations to vote for the plan.

In his speech to the United Nations, David Ben-Gurion argued the case for the creation of the State of Israel by referring to Pesach and the story told in the Haggadah:

“Three hundred years ago a ship called the Mayflower set sail to the New World. This was a great event in the history of England. Yet I wonder if there is one Englishman who knows at what time the ship set sail? Do the English know how many people embarked on this voyage? What quality of bread did they eat? Yet more than three thousand three hundred years ago, before the Mayflower set sail, the Jews left Egypt.

Every Jew in the world, even in America or Soviet Russia, knows on exactly what date they left – the fifteenth of the month of Nissan. Everyone knows what kind of bread they ate. Even today the Jews worldwide eat matzah on the fifteenth of Nissan. They retell the story of the Exodus and all the troubles Jews have endured since being exiled. They conclude this evening with two statements: This year, slaves. Next year, free people. This year here. Next year in Jerusalem, in Zion, in Eretz Yisrael. That is the nature of the Jews.”

Why is seder night the most observed of all Jewish traditions? Ordinarily, it ticks many of the boxes we Jews want from a good evening: time with our family and friends, great food and drink and wonderful songs and stories. But this isn't the secret of seder night's success.

The answer is this. On seder night we don't just tell a story from long ago: we act it out as though it's happening right now. On seder night we don't just enjoy hors d'oeuvres: we eat foods which remind us of the bitterness of slavery and the sweetness of freedom. On seder night we don't just sing songs: we chant the same words that our ancestors have said for centuries.

Seder night is, in modern parlance, an immersive theatrical experience. The Exodus from Egypt and the yearning for Israel, for a country we could call our own, was and must remain a lived experience. But unlike a regular trip to the theatre, our dining room stages take on cosmic significance: every seder night we participate in establishes another indelible link in the long unbroken chain of Jewish tradition.

Seder night forges collective memory. Seder night creates history.

That is what we will be doing this year, even if the pandemic means once again that we are facing another highly disrupted Pesach. We may not be able to spend it with our loved ones. We may not be able to enjoy it as we are used to. But by having our two seder nights, even in these difficult circumstances, we can still create history. Chag kasher v'sameach.

TheUS

PESACH MESSAGE

PRESIDENT MARIE VAN DER ZYL

NISSAN 5781

This time last year I wrote in my Pesach message about the pandemic which had suddenly overtaken all of us and which was already taking a heavy toll on the Jewish community. I am very sad that one year later this terrible virus is still claiming lives in our community and affecting the way we live.

Once again, Seder Night will not be the packed, joyous family event we all love. We will, for the second time, be holding intimate events with our closest family and then only if we are lucky enough to live in the same house or bubble. My thoughts are with all of you who are alone at this time or unable to see your nearest and dearest. This past year has taken a toll on all of us but I have seen great acts of generosity and kindness. In some ways, this terrible situation has brought out the best in people – from the small things, like a grandchild baking for her grandparents who are shielding, to those such as Captain Tom, whose fundraising made millions for the NHS, before his sad passing earlier this year.

Now, with millions already vaccinated and infection rates falling, we have a sacred duty to ensure that lives are saved. Every death in our community has been a tragedy for someone's family. We must ensure that we do everything to save lives. This is the most fundamental imperative of Judaism.

Over this year, the way the Board of Deputies operates has changed, with home working for our staff and Zoom for our plenary meetings. Our online BoDCast events have engaged thousands of people from across the country and across the world and our achievements have continued to grow.

"I am resigning the whip... the latest example of Labour's leadership becoming a force for antisemitism in British politics... The latest example, from last week, comes after a series of attempts by Jeremy to deny the past statements and actions by him were antisemitic. Britain fought the Second World War to banish these views from our politics, but that superhuman effort and success is now under huge and sustained internal attack."
